IRONHORSE™ 47RE

The Russ Moore “Ironhorse” 47RE (previously the A618) is the only answer if you have a tough job to get done! Have you got heavy work to be performed? Do you need the ultimate in reliability? Do you demand only the toughest performance from your Dodge truck? Here at Russ Moore we build in quality for “You” the professional.

The Russ Moore “Ironhorse” is built to offer the toughest performance of any 47RE transmission, whether you need to haul a fifth-wheel, or plowing snow, or just working on the job site.

The Ironhorse 47RE performance transmission includes as standard all new high performance clutch packs including new steels, along with new bushings & sealing rings, All transmissions come tuned with a Russ Moore shift-package, this transmission is just as tough as your Dodge truck can be. An important feature for the 47RE transmission is it's built to perform, using the Russ Moore “Blue-Printed” pump, this ensures maximum amounts of lube oil available to feed all bushings, washers and the geartrain. With increased pressures your transmission will receive improved shifts and torque converter charge; so that you will not lose power during heavy torque demands or from wide open throttles situations. Because this 47RE transmission is Russ Moore tough, it is packed with all new electronic components within the transmission.

The standard “Ironhorse” 47RE transmission comes with a Russ Moore remanufactured torque converter assembly; that has been “Blue-Printed” which includes brand new bearings, seals, relined clutch disc and fully tested. However for the toughest jobs, we strongly recommend that you upgrade this package to our “Triple” disc torque converter that is unparalleled in its long life and durability, it will not let you down.
